

1. The FCC should not implement any proposal that would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy law protections.
2. Indiana's Telephone Privacy law Has made it possible for me to spend time at home without frequent interruptions to my peace by telemarketers.
3. I received on the average of 10-15 calls a week. Now I receive less than one per month.
4. I pay for telephone service for my convenience and not for telemarketers to interrupt my peace at various hours in attempt to sell me something which I don't want. Even after saying I am not interested in their product, they continue to press the issue.
